

Participate in a Caltrans Pilot Study, Earn up to $250, and Help Bring the Rural and Native American Voice to the Future of Transportation Funding

California is exploring an alternative to the gas tax and wants to understand the unique impacts to these communities.

The 2023 California Road Charge Public/Private Roads Pilot will gather essential information for evaluating how a road charge program could address travel on and off public, private, and tribal roadways in California. The state is offering incentives of up to $250 for participants in the seven month pilot launching in March 2023.

In the pilot, participants will be given a device for their car to capture their miles traveled and whether the vehicle is traveling on public, private, or tribal lands in California (or out of state). Data will be captured securely through a third-party account manager, and vehicle location information will be sanitized (deleted and non-recoverable from collection devices). Caltrans will not receive any location-specific data from pilot participants' unique vehicle. Qualified participants will be eligible to receive up to $250 in incentives for their time and completion of pilot milestones.

Once you qualify, the Project Team will reach out to you in late February / early March 2023 with information on how to enroll and get started.

Do you have an Active FasTrak® Account with the Toll Roads?

We want you for the pilot too!

Caltrans is also partnering with The Toll Roads in a mini pilot that will explore how one of California's tolling agencies might help administer a statewide road charge system.

For example, will it be easier for a driver to pay a road charge and toll in the same statement?

If you are a current Toll Roads customer, we would love to have you participate and tell us about your experience – while earning up to $250!
